Why do I need Cyber Defence Insurance?

Cyber Defence Insurance is designed to protect your business against a number of cyber exposures – from hacking attacks and viruses to privacy breaches and theft of data.

It provides cover for direct costs to your business as well as claims from third parties, and also covers expenses associated with defending cyber claims, such as legal defence costs.

- You are protected against the loss of sensitive personal and corporate information caused by theft or altering of data, virus or malware, denial of service, and other losses of data from your computer systems or from your service providers (for example from the Cloud or your internet service provider)
- A cyber event can cause significant reputational damage in terms of both the reputation of the business and that of the senior executives. Cyber Defence Insurance helps you to minimise this damage to your brand and senior executives' reputations by providing cover for the cost of engaging external public relations consultancy services.
- Despite best efforts, cyber breaches by employees can happen. Cyber Defence Insurance covers your liability in the event you are sued as a result of information provided in your multimedia – such as on your website or in your company brochures. This could be caused by a breach of copyright, plagiarism, defamation, libel or slander.
- A cyber event can significantly impact your business financially. Cyber Defence Insurance covers you for loss of profits or revenue arising from a hacking attack or virus, damage to your computer systems, or operational error by an employee or service provider.
